THE DEMOSTHENES MEDAL FOR CONSISTENT EXCELLENCE IN ANCIENT GREEK STUDIES

In 2001 Mr Nicholas Galatis established a further three prizes in the area of Ancient Greek Studies at the University, one of which is the The Demosthenes Medal for Consistent Excellence in Ancient Greek Studies. The aim of this prize is to encourage students to consistently excel in Ancient Greek studies throughout their degree.

1. The name of the prize shall be ‘The Demosthenes Medal for Consistent Excellence in Ancient Greek Studies’.
2. The prize shall be a medal.
3. The prize shall be awarded each year at the Galatis Prize Giving Ceremony.
4. The prize shall be awarded to the most meritorious student who achieves a credit or higher over a period of three or four years in a total of at least three Classics courses with significant Ancient Greek content.
5. If, in any particular year, the examiner/s consider that no candidate is suitable for the prize, then no award shall be made.
6. If two or more candidates are deemed to be of equal merit, the prize shall be awarded to each candidate.

THE GALATIS MEDAL FOR THE BEST ESSAY IN A FIRST YEAR GREEK TOPIC

In 2001 Mr Nicholas Galatis established a further three prizes in the area of Ancient Greek Studies, one of which is the The Galatis Medal for the Best Essay in a First Year Greek Topic. The aim of this prize is to encourage students to excel in a first year (beginners) Greek topic.

1. The name of the prize shall be ‘The Galatis Medal for the Best Essay in a First Year Greek Topic’.
2. The prize shall be a medal.
3. The prize shall be awarded each year at the Galatis Prize Giving Ceremony.
4. The prize shall be awarded to the student with the most outstanding result for a first year Greek essay.
5. If, in any particular year, the examiner/s consider that no candidate is suitable for the prize, then no award shall be made.
6. If two or more candidates are deemed to be of equal merit, the prize shall be awarded to each candidate.

THE ODYSSEUS MEDAL FOR ADVANCED ANCIENT GREEK STUDIES

In 2001 Mr Nicholas Galatis established a further three prizes in the area of Ancient Greek Studies, one of which is the The Odysseus Medal for Advanced Ancient Greek Studies. The aim of this prize is to encourage students to excel in the research component of Level III courses with significant ancient Greek content not covered by The Barony of Ithaka Prize and The Constantinos and Polymnia Moraitis Prize.

1. The name of the prize shall be ‘The Odysseus Medal for Advanced Ancient Greek Studies’.
2. The prize shall be a medal.
3. The prize shall be awarded each year at the Galatis Prize Giving Ceremony.
4. The prize shall be awarded to the student of a level III course with the most outstanding result for an essay on a topic with a significant Ancient Greek focus, excluding Greek History or Greek Archaeology.
5. If, in any particular year, the examiner/s consider that no candidate is suitable for the prize, then no award shall be made.
6. If two or more candidates are deemed to be of equal merit, the prize shall be awarded to each candidate.

Updated 4 March 2016